

A geometric diagram showing a circle with a vertical diameter. A point A is marked on the upper right part of the circumference. A line segment connects the center of the circle to point A. Another line segment connects the center to a point on the circumference. A horizontal line is drawn below the circle.